

Centre Point
Prisma/KirchSports GmbH Headquarters, London

A flexible workstation and storage system meeting the practical needs of individual users and reinforcing the clarity and consistency of the office as a whole environment is a key part of Eldridge Smerin's solution for the central London headquarters of Prisma KirchSports GmbH.

The top two floors of London's iconic and Grade II listed Centre Point Tower provided an atmospheric setting for this fitout completed in 2000 providing 10,000 sq ft of new office accommodation. The design balances the need to provide a large number of cellular spaces with a commitment to maintain light, transparency and open views. Banks of glass-fronted offices flank the central circulation route and provide space in which to focus but also offer panoramic views of the life of the city beyond.

eldridge smerin

